A Commendable Enterprise

Although the feeling of apathy predominates in Tonopah, there are a few business men of this camp who realize the splendid opportunity offered toward advertising the resources of southern Nevada through the medium of the motion picture films that will shortly portray life in this district from the time of discovery until the present date. These gentlemen have been quietly working on the project for the past two months and have at last reached the point where the success of the movement will stand or fall, depending entirely upon the moral support to be exerted by the balance of the population.

Contrary to the usual run of propositions, the backers of the project ask for no financial support; moral support only is requested. The assistance of a vast number of people will be needed when the time arrives that the photographer commences to portray Tonopah scenes on the films. It is then the moral support will be needed, and if the spirit that attended the meeting Monday night can be taken as an example, the support will be tendered.

The pictures taken will be shown in practically every town in the United States that boasts of a moving picture theater. In this wise Tonopah will receive an enormous lot of advertising that cannot help but have a prosperous reflection upon this district. The pictures will show the mines and milis; the underground workings will be showed and the camera will follow the ore from the time it is being drilled into until it has passed through every stage and is being carted to the outside world in the form of bullion. The film will reveal a world of history, even to many residents of this camp, and from an educational standpoint will prove invaluable, both to the present and the coming genera-

It is desired to briefly sketch the modes of living and mining during the early days. The evolution of mining will prove a revelation to Tono-First will be the windlass, then the whim, next the gasoline hoist, then the steam hoist and lastly the electrical hoisting apparatus. Throughout the entire three reels of pictures will run an interesting drama with a touch of a love story that is calculated to hold the interest of the audience from the start to the finish.

The moral support of every person in Tonopah should be given to aid and encourage those who are backing this project, for it should be realized that several thousand dollars will be spent in perfecting the

Building Restrictions Needed

Tonopah, although reckoned as the second most progressive city in the state of Nevada, is sadly negligent in looking toward its future welfare. Efforts should be undertaken at once to remedy all present defects for there is no doubt but what this camp will eclipse its present size within the next few years. The growth will be both in size and population and the next decade will witness a number of startling changes, all of which will be for the better.

It lies within the power of the board of county commissioners to take the necessary precautions to insure the future welfare of the people of this camp. One of the first actions needed is to enact an ordinance providing for a street grade on Main street to govern the construction of sidewalks, and the second is to regulate the construction of all buildings within a certain prescribed limit which should be designated

The commissioners are now in session and it would be but the work of a minute to give instructions to the district attorney to have the ordinances drafted and ready to be submitted at the coming monthly session. The creation of a fire district is of the greatest importance to the future of Tonopah. The proposed ordinance should provide only for the construction of buildings of stone, cement or brick in the place of those that should be subsequently destroyed, or of structures that are to be erected on vacant lots. The district should embrace only the business section of the town

There are a number of costly fire proof buildings now in evidence on Main street and the adjoining thoroughfares that constitute the business section. In several instances frame structures are to be found adjoining the fire proof building. Had the restrictions been in effect six months ago, the wooden houses would not have been built, and in their stend a more substantial form of building would have been erected.

It may be said that had building restrictions been in effect six months ago that the Bonanza would not have been rebuilt in a wooden building. This assertion is true, but there is every reason to believe that had a fire proof building been demanded in order to comply with the ordinance, such a building would have been constructed ,although it would have meant the outlay of an additional expense. Prompt action should be taken by the board for a delay may mean a huge loss to this city, a loss that the future will be unable to efface.

Removing the Stain

The hand of Reno divorce lawyers and their co-thursts who are deaperately lighting the pursues of the Barnes bill by the legislature, which amenda the saw to require a year's residence before applying for a di verce, are new reserving to foul tactics to win their fight. Over 50 pe sithons were placed in electiation in from several days ago by women who are in favor of the proposed law, and the immediate response of hundreds of signers created construction in the ranks of the diverce lawyers. The pertitors were placed in many of the leading business houses and one was left with the librarian at the Carnegie library. This last named document was filled with many names and was fast growing in proportions when it was suddenly discovered that wome person had removed it unbeknowns; to the librarian.

disastrously to those who favor the law now in force, which calls for a six-months' residenceship. The factics employed to defeat the measure were strongly condemned and secured many additional signers to the petitions, many business men who refused to sign when first requested to do so, having changed their minds. As a result the committee of ladies have canvassed the business part of Reno the second time, securing many names that were refused to the first instance.

The Reno woman who are fighting to improve the moral welfare of this state are being assisted by a number of Heno attorneys. By the word attorney it is meant a practitioner who is versed in law and is engaged to try cases other than divorce measures. The lawyers who are assisting the movement stand at the head of their profession, while in opposition is ranged an array of shysters that would do credit to any Baxter street resort.
